C. OF C. COMMITTEE URGES VOTE FOR SCHOOL BONDS

Gives Number of Reasons Why Issue Should Be Carried
at Polls on Dec. 29

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the high school bond issue campaign sends the following communication to The Glendale Evening News:

"Editor The Evening News—Would you kindly publish the following statement in order that it may reach the citizens interested in the High School Bond Election of December 29."

The statement referred to by the committee follows in full:

Statement to the Voters—We, as members of the committee asked by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce to labor for the success of the bonds in the Glendale Union High School election December 29, cannot too strongly urge upon our citizens the duty and necessity of carrying the bonds.

On November 8 at a mass meeting in the High School Auditorium, the trustees were instructed to call an election to vote $85,000 to buy a site for the future high school, the difference between the bonds and the actual purchase price to be used to cover the charges of architects in drawing up plans for buildings and other improvements. The mass meeting also requested the trustees to place two sites before the voters to ascertain their choice, the Lukens site on Broadway and Verdugo road for $77,500 and the Grey site on Doran and Kenilworth for $75,000.

Since these two sites divide our citizens into two groups, the Chamber of Commerce as a body, thought it the proper policy, in the interest of harmony, not to officially declare for either site. However, the critical situation of our high school should compel all of us to be a unit for the bonds. The good name and prosperity of our city is at stake.

Dr. Julia White Is Back From Trip East

Dr. Julia White, of 228 East Maple avenue has returned from a pleasant sojourn of ten weeks visiting in the east. She spent some little time in Chicago, taking post-graduate work at Northwestern University, visited in Minneapolis, Minn., Madison, Wis., and went from there to New Orleans, and entered Tulane University for further post-graduate work.

Dr. White says she enjoyed every day of her stay, but is happy to be at home and busy once more with her arduous duties at the Sanitarium, where she is an attending physician. She came home fully convinced that there is no state in the Union that compares with California, and no city in the world that she could love as she does Glendale.

Pacific Avenue Church Aids Ex-Service Men

The congregation of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church demonstrated the Christmas spirit last night by coming to an entertainment laden with "goodies" for the boys at Thorneycroft Sanitarium.

"These are not charity gifts at all," remarked the Rev. Harley G. Preston. "They are merely tokens of our appreciation for the service which the boys rendered us during the war."

Beside the Christmas tree the choir platform was heaped with jellies, jams, candies, fruits and home-made good things of all kinds. A number of "kiddies" were on hand to meet Santa Claus personally.

DINNER PARTY HOSTESSES

Mrs. E. C. Coles, Miss Roberta Coles and Miss Lynn Coles are entertaining with a family dinner party tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cross, 329 Pioneer drive. Their guests will include Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cross, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Guthrie and daughter, Catherine, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gist and son and daughter, Bobby and Betty, Miss Eleanor Sawyer and Miss Barbara Baker.

COL. H. B. LIGHT RETURNS

Colonel Harry B. Light of 1900 Gardens avenue returned to his home today from the Glendale Research Hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He is doing nicely and his family are rejoicing that they can have him at home on Christmas day.

AT NATIONAL CONVENTION

R. W. Cowlin of 346 Hawthorne street left Los Angeles yesterday for Kansas City, Missouri, where he will attend the annual national convention of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He will return to Berkeley to resume his studies in the University of California on January 7.

SHOULD CHILDREN BE TOLD OF SANTA CLAUS? CAUSES RIOT IN JAIL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 24.—Rioting, as a result of which one man had to be sent to the county hospital and a second had to be given medical attention, broke out in the county jail today when two prisoners engaged in a hot dispute as to whether or not children should be told there is a Santa Claus.

The fighting was stopped by armed guards after Lewis Palski, 35, had suffered several deep scalp wounds and Lewis Pitts had received several lacerations.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS! DISCOVERY MADE! THERE IS LAKE IN THIS CITY

Boating on Lake Ambrosini has been the pastime for the schoolboys in the vicinity of Broadway and Glendale avenue this holiday vacation.

Rude rafts have been constructed in the pond which the rainstorm left in the basement excavation of the new hotel site.

The Hjorth Construction company has been delayed in completing the retaining walls and it will probably take pumps to remove the water.

And He Can't Bite Back

Near riots have been caused by canines in the vicinity of Brand boulevard and Broadway because the dogs become offended at the big Victor dog in front of the Glendale Music company store.

Two hairless Mexican pups, otherwise known as Chihuahuas (pronounced she-wah-was), nearly fell out of the automobile parked in front of the store in their effort to attack "His Master's Voice."

Yesterday three dogs, including one uneducated Boston bull terrier, surrounded the dumb thing and endeavored to pick a fight.

Oh, yes! Music is provided free for the show by the Salmacia Brothers who keep a salesman busy demonstrating the Victor machines.

But Why Call it 'Oh Boy!'

"Oh Boy" is the name of the bedwarmer patented and marketed by a Glendale man, R. W. Biddlecom of 1008 Virginia Place.

Described briefly, it is a tin can punched full of holes, covered by a piece of bathrobe material and heated by one of the old-fashioned 20-watt electric light bulbs. The shiny tin reflects the heat and makes things comfortable for sick people or those predisposed to cold feet.

It is stated that Mayo Brothers and other hospitals throughout the country have adopted this bedwarmer because of its even temperature and low cost of operation. It was patented in 1904, but only recently has Mr. Biddlecom marketed the device.

Well! Well! Merry Xmas!

Mrs. C. C. Cooper, wife of the president of the First National and First Savings Banks of this city, left home yesterday afternoon for a short shopping trip.

While she was gone the house was entered and the piano taken out. Imagine Mrs. Cooper's surprise when she returned to find a Knabe grand piano in the place of the other.

It was a gift from her husband, purchased at the Loomis-Shuck Music Company store. Similar mysterious events are occurring throughout Glendale today.

First National Bank Employees Get Bonuses

Bonuses are being given as Christmas presents to all employees of the First National and First Savings Banks, according to an announcement made today by C. C. Cooper, president of both institutions. The success of these rapidly growing institutions has been due to the loyalty and work of the assistant cashiers, tellers, accountants and clerks, the banker believes, and he is endeavoring to reward them in this way for their efforts.

MRS. C. L. SLOAN VISITOR

Mrs. C. L. Sloan, who resided at 911 East Lomita avenue for several months prior to Thanksgiving, was in Glendale last week visiting with friends before leaving for her home in Idaho. Since leaving this city Mrs. Sloan has been staying with friends in Los Angeles, where her little son, Bobbie, recently underwent a serious operation on his spine.

F. R. SINCLAIRS ARE HOSTS

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Sinclair of 245 Sinclair avenue will entertain at dinner Christmas day. Out-of-town guests will be Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilson, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. Wyatt and baby daughter.

BUILDING PERMITS FOR THIS MONTH NOW $373,484

Total for December to Date of $4,971,225, and Last Year Far Outdistanced

Residents of Glendale keep right on building homes and garages, according to F. A. Marek, superintendent of buildings at the city hall.

The total valuation of building permits issued in December, 1920, was $154,171, and the building record for 1920, $3,136,089, as compared with $587,015 for 1919.

At the present rate of building the permits will total well over $5,000,000 before the first of the year.

Some Recent Permits
In the past few days the following permits have been issued at the building inspector's office:
Milton G. Kear, 5 rooms and garage, 1812 Vassar street $3,500
H. L. Fearn, 4 rooms, 325 Elk avenue 2,100
H. L. Fearn, 4 rooms, 327 Elk avenue 2,100
Mrs. Huddleton, 3 rooms, 823 East Orange Grove, 1,500
S. W. Brown, 3-room bungalow, 483 West Los Feliz road 1,200
A. Agassin, grocery, 424 East Colorado street 1,000
J. L. Howard, 4 rooms, 1148 San Rafael avenue 900
J. P. Finley, 2-room garage 173 Opechee Way 600
H. H. Davenport, office, 1262 South Brand boulevard 400
Charles Hoyt, garage, 506 East Maple avenue 200

Mrs. C. B. Guthrie Is Hostess at Luncheon

Mrs. C. B. Guthrie of 314 Patterson avenue entertained with a buffet luncheon and matinee party yesterday afternoon for her daughter, Miss Catherine Guthrie. A Christmas tree with red candles, suggestive of the holiday season, was used for decorations. After luncheon the young people were chaperoned to a Los Angeles theatre by Mrs. E. C. Coles.

The guests included Emma Laura Cooper, Eleanor Sawyer, Katherine Stoff, Dorothy Houston, Evelyn Hunt, Marie Heanishaw, Sarah Allen, Margaret Brown, Lois Naudain, Sarah Chandler, Doris Osmon, Valera Trimmer, Sarah McClure, Cecil Chase, Mary Cook, Winifred Parker and Barbara Parker of Wyoming.

William Baker Placed in Charge of Escrow

William Baker, who has been assistant to Lawrence E. Olson, in charge of the escrow department at the Brand boulevard branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank, has been appointed as escrow officer in charge of that department at the Glendale avenue branch of this banking institution, and will resume his duties in connection with his new post Tuesday, December 27. Mr. Baker is residing on South Glendale avenue at present, but has purchased a lot in Verdugo Woodlands and intends to build a home there soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Huntley Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Huntley of 1440 Highland avenue entertained as their dinner guests at the Casa Verdugo restaurant Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans and daughter, Catherine. The affair was in celebration of the twenty-fourth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Huntley. The dining table was centered with poinsettias, suggestive of the holiday season. After dinner the remainder of the evening was spent in social conversation.

WANTED, HUNGRY KIDDIES

Business is poor with Santa Claus. He wants more boys and girls under 18, otherwise not cared for Christmas day, to report to the White Inn before tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock where a Christmas dinner will be served free to the youngsters. Phone Glendale 650-W if you will be there.

WOMAN IS SANTA CLAUS

Can a woman play the part of Santa Claus?
Well, over a hundred youngsters yesterday afternoon in the basement of the First Methodist church seemed well pleased with the role as played by Miss Ruth Twomey of 214 North Belmont street.

The program was arranged by Mrs. J. W. Stauffer, superintendent of primary department, and Mrs. M. A. Kuehny, superintendent of the beginners' department.

WANTED: FIRE HOUSE FOR GRAND VIEW; CAN YOU HELP?

Story in The News Brought Lot; Now What Will This Tale Bring Forth, Eh?

The city of Glendale, like the growing boy, is pinched for clothes. It needs a new fire house in the Grand View section.

City Manager Reeves mentioned the matter the other day and The Glendale Evening News forthwith published a story which interested Mr. Wilcox who is going to subdivide a tract in the vicinity of Grand View avenue and Sixth street.

As a result he has offered the city a lot, 50 by 90 feet, on which to build the neat little bungalow fire station which Chief A. H. Lanford has planned for for the northwest section.

"If somebody will give the council another lot to sell, the proceeds of which will go into the building, we immediately can give that part of the city a fire engine of its own," says the city manager.

Come on With Suggestions
"Otherwise we may have to build the bungalow on time," say $500 down and a dollar a week for the rest of time."

Now it is up to the readers of The Glendale Evening News to suggest a way by which the city can get the whole idea across.

Another matter which is interesting Mr. Reeves very much at this time is the new building ordinance. All builders and contractors have been called together for a meeting in the city council chamber next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Local Postoffice Is Keeping Up With Rush

Glendale's postal workers are keeping up with the Christmas rush, according to Postmaster Jackson, recently appointed postmaster, who is acting in an unofficial capacity until the office is turned over to him the last of the year.

Sixty-five sacks of mail which came in last night were routed before 8 o'clock and ready for delivery this morning. Practically everything received today will be delivered with six regular mail trucks and four volunteer machines in the service.

Dr. H. R. Harrower of the Harrower Laboratory has donated the use of his truck; Captain William A. Lovins is delivering mail in his limousine and Captain Jackson is keeping his own two cars in service. Harry E. White loaned one of his Moreland trucks for the heavy bundles and everyone is giving the greatest co-operation.

Never in the history of the Glendale office has delivery been so prompt and the esprit de corps so noticeable. People have heeded the "early mail" suggestions and the holidays should be happy with such service.

Mrs. John Ireland Knocked Unconscious

While passing Furbuck's Art Store on South Brand boulevard yesterday, Mrs. John Ireland of 305 North Jackson street was confronted by a group of small boys playing on the walk. She dodged aside and thought herself free from further contact with them, but had gone only a few steps when she was struck by either one of the youngsters or the wagon they were drawing and thrown against the building with such force that she was rendered unconscious.

After first aid had been rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Furbuck, she was taken to her home and, except for a large bump on her head, is apparently none the worse for her experience.

L. W. Stafford and Family Visiting Here

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stafford and three children of Gold Creek, Mont., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Stuart, 120 South Belmont street. They are more than glad to be in usually sunny southern California for the holidays. Mr. Stafford brought a large elk's head with him for mounting in the Glendale Pharmacy conducted by Mr. Stuart.

It will be all one sentence, punctuated only with commas and semicolons and ended with a question mark.

Annual Gathering and Christmas Party Given

The members of the S. O. S. class of the Central Christian church held their annual party and Christmas tree last night at the home of Miss Alice Mercer, 319 North Jackson street, it proving to be one of the most heartily-enjoyed of any of their jolly social affairs. Games were enthusiastically entered into and proved to be highly entertaining until 10 o'clock, when the doors of the den were opened and an elaborately decorated Christmas tree was displayed. Christmas gifts were exchanged and old Santa Claus gave the customary red stocking filled with goodies to everyone. Mrs. A. A. Smith, teacher of the class, gave each of the girls a little gift of love. The class, in turn, presented Mrs. Smith with a beautiful picture of the sand dunes.

Following the din and noise made by the blowing of whistles, horns and so forth and the playing upon toy musical instruments, refreshments of ice-cream and cake were served. Poinsettia favors, filled with salted nuts, completed the appointments. Those present at this jolly evening included Misses Alice Mercer, Rose Nelson, Evelyn Thymian, Lelee Nuerburg, Ramona Ryan, Ruth Mercer, Muriel Theobald, Naomi Lucas, Hazel Nuerburg, Nell Leggett, Fern Peters, Eula Stevenson, Rose Jennings, Ruth Gibbs, Ruth Huff and Garnett Peters, and Messrs. Plan Motor Trip on Holiday?
You Do? Well, Read This and Avoid Trouble.

Weather: Unsettled weather tonight and Sunday, with probably occasional showers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—The weather man held out little promise of a clear Christmas to California today.

"Tonight and Sunday, showers" was his prediction for the whole length of California.

He announced, however, that the storm off the coast, which has caused the rain, has receded slightly.

Glendale families, who desire to take holiday tours, need stay home on account of the roads in only a few instances, according to M. B. Towman, manager of the local branch of the Southern California Automobile club. He has received the following reports in regard to highways:

Mr. and Mrs. Paul and family of Redlands, and Mr. and Mrs. Haven and family of Glendale.

There will be no automobile trip this Christmas for Ed P. Ranson, proprietor of the Lunch Box, 103 West Broadway. Last night amid great excitement his Chevrolet was badly damaged by fire in its garage in the rear of 126 North Orange street. Rapid work by the fire department, which was called out about 1 o'clock, prevented the conflagration swallowing a number of adjoining garages.

A reward of $50 was offered this morning by Ira Herbert, manager of the Glendale Fire and Patrol Dispatch, for the arrest and conviction of the person who broke into Mrs. Mary Ralph's home, 545 North Louise street, yesterday and stole a wicker suit case packed with clothes and Christmas presents. The burglary was reported to the police at 9:50 last night. It was found that entry had been made through the back screen.

a party of Glendale and Iowa friends at dinner and cards last night.

A Christmas party is being given this afternoon for the members of the dancing classes of the Pearl Keller studio.

Osborn Lee and Brice Lee, who attend Pomona college, are spending their Christmas vacation with their grandfather, E. L. Osborn of 406

fastest growing city in the nation. Two years have passed since this census and our building permits for 1921 show that we are advancing at the same tremendous pace. The city is growing in all directions. Hardly a day passes without some new subdivision is opened up in the east or west, north or south and soon sold out. The city hall, the gas company, and the telephone company are all under terrific pressure to fill the demands of hundreds of new buildings and hundreds of new families.

Is it any wonder that our high school should be outgrowing its quarters which in May, 1920, the citizens voted eventually to leave? Temporary bungalows were built last year, but so fast is the growth of the student body that, unless we vote bonds to provide for a future larger site and plant, the time will soon come when prospective citizens wanting proper high school facilities for their children will hesitate to choose our city for a residence.

In 1900 the average attendance at our high school was 167, in 1915 it was 369; in 1920 it was 680. The present enrollment is over 1200. When we know that though we vote immediately to buy a site that probably two years would elapse before a proper new plant could be occupied, the above figures should make us very serious.

Community Pride

Southern California is noted for its fine high school facilities and Glendale cannot afford to be placed in an inferior rank. A proper high school is a highly desirable drawing card as a business proposition. It gives us a greater pride in our community. But these facts are small compared with the great fact that Glendale's boys and girls must have the best possible educational facilities to equip them for the strenuous life of the next generation. It is high time we came to a decision.

For nearly two years we have been floating upon a sea of uncertainty. Our trustees can make no definite plans till we vote for something positive. Where shall our high school be? No one knows. Certainly not on the present site in the congested business quarters—that part was settled in 1920. The new school must be somewhere. Can we ever decide more intelligently than December 29? Every delay means the subdividing of and building upon attractive possible sites. Delay is dangerous.

This committee would advise every voter to cast a ballot for whichever site seems best adapted to the future interests and needs of the Glendale Union High School, whether it be the Luken's or the Grey tract. But there is one issue that we should all be absolutely united upon—the one prime present educational necessity in this crisis—SUCCESS OF THE BONDS! There is only one conclusion. NEXT THURSDAY VOTE YES FOR THE HIGH SCHOOL BONDS!

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. EMILY TWAITS
Mrs. Emily Twaits, who had been a resident of Glendale for the past eleven years, passed away this morning at 9:45 o'clock, Saturday, December 24, 1921, at 115 East Maple street, the home of her daughter, Mrs. Daisy Mason. Mrs. Twaits was born in Kent, England, October 16, 1837, and was 84 years of age. Funeral announcement will be made later by Pulliam & Kiefer.

MRS. JESSIE C. MBRIDE
Mrs. Jessie C. McBride, 73, died this morning, Saturday, December 24, 1921, at 737 South Maryland avenue, the home of her daughter, Miss Ruth K. McBride. Mrs. McBride was born in Scotland, April 7, 1848. She had been a resident of Glendale for the past two years. Funeral announcement will be made later by Pulliam & Kiefer.

COMMON LABOR WAGE CUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—Common labor in the building trades suffered the biggest cut in wages in a decision announced by the Impartial Wage board, set up by the Industrial association, following the long controversy in the building trades. The board never received official recognition of the unions and the effect of its decision remains to be tested. Common labor was cut from $6 to $4.50 a day. A basic minimum of $8 a day was established for skilled mechanics. This means cuts of from 25 cents to $1 a day.

The Season's Greetings to You

The spirit of friendliness is more pronounced at this season of the year, and as all of us pause while we are getting a fresh start for the coming twelvemonth we review the past season.

Gordon's looks over the past year with great satisfaction and much appreciation. With satisfaction because we have been able to give our many patrons such service that has brought them back to us again and again. With appreciation because of their continued patronage and good will.

The people of Glendale and its surrounding territory have given us a splendid business, but, of far greater value, they have given us their friendship.

Greater efforts to be of service during the coming year will be our acknowledgment of our appreciation.

STINNES, WIZARD OF FINANCE, JUGGLES MANY MILLIONS

Sits at Dingy Desk, Looking More Like Some Dealer in Second-Hand Junk

BERLIN—"Go and see Stinnes" or "Have you seen Stinnes?" These are the words you hear constantly in Berlin business circles. The man from Breslau with a factory to sell, the promoter from Frankfurt with a banking project, the speculator from Munich with an idea, and the harassed director with a hard-pressed steel works—all of these have only one object in coming to Berlin, and that is to see Hugo Stinnes, the mystery man of finance, the Bismarck of commerce, the real dictator of Germany.

Here in Berlin, in a dingy, unpretentious, ill-furnished office, sits the wizard—the greatest money juggler since the days of Ernest Terah Hooley—taciturn, sombre-eyed, ill-dressed, and without that personal charm which so many financiers depend for success.

Herr Stinnes is a busy man who does not appear to be busy. Yet he is a tremendous worker, a dark-visaged, inscrutable, almost sinister-looking glutton for work.

His Is the Will

He controls something over 130 public companies. They all have boards of directors, but his is the will that moves the boards, his the policy that is pursued. He relies on his own judgment, and not on that of others. He does not ask advice, nor does he give it. He gives orders instead.

He is a tremendous listener, too; sits for interminable minutes at his shabby desk listening, and scrutinizing meanwhile with his deep-thinking, luminous eyes the man who is anxious to sell or please.

Herr Stinnes, with his dark beard, pallid face, close-cropped hair, and the figure of a black-clad small dealer in second-hand scrap iron, gives you no indication of strength by his utterances. They are few and to the point. But one cannot be in his presence a minute without feeling that here is a man of power and nerve and imagination. Is it ships? He knows all about them, for he controls them to the extent of many millions. Is it mines? He is the greatest coal owner on the continent. Is it mill, flour or paper? Here, too, he is master. Is it dye-works or electricity? He controls. Is it banks? He either owns them or dominates. Wherever you turn in Germany, into any of the main avenues or the by-ways of finance, you encounter the shadow of this strange, taciturn man of millions.

Seventy Newspapers

Unlike Mr. Hooley, however, Herr Stinnes keeps in touch with other things besides mere company-making and the development of German industry. He is a politician as well, or he sits in the Reichstag as an M. P., and though he has little faith in the efficacy of parliamentary procedure, he retains his seat, for you never know what may happen and how necessary it may be, in the interest of the 140 companies, that their chief should have a voice on the floor of the House.

He has another voice, too, a gigantic, strident voice if he cares to use it, in the form of seventy newspapers with enormous circulations. Imagine the power of such a voice, and yet you seldom detect his influence in the columns of the newspapers that Stinnes owns. It is not known if he has yet achieved a full understanding of the efficacy of the printed word. Possibly he has. He is a difficult man to interview, and when he has been interviewed there is very little wine to squeeze out of the vintage of words; and sometimes, too, he is constrained to repudiate, which isn't very pleasant.

But on the whole Herr Stinnes is a great man with a powerful mind and a following in Germany enjoyed today by no other man. It is the personality of the man with the uncouth figure and the dingy clothes, together with his daring finance in big figures, that has made him today the greatest figure in Germany.

Not Economical to Burn Corn in Ohio

COLUMBUS—The claim that it is more economical to burn coal than to burn corn in Ohio is made by rural economists and stockmen at Ohio State university, commenting upon the alleged statement by U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that corn at twenty cents a bushel is as economical a fuel as coal at $10 a ton.

"In Ohio most corn is selling for between twenty-two and thirty cents a bushel, and our nearness to the coal fields is holding coal around $8 a ton," declared J. I. Falconer, head of the Department of Rural Economics, who said Secretary Wallace's figures appear to refer to states farther west.

Even if Ohio prices were to reach the levels quoted in Secretary Wallace's statement it would be bad farming to burn corn, according to Paul Gerlaugh, extension specialist in animal husbandry. "Live stock can use the grain to far better profit," Professor Gerlaugh indicated. "Corn fed to hogs is worth about sixty-five cents a bushel; when fed to a beef calf, eighty-nine cents; to a yearling, fifty-eight cents, and to a two-year-old, forty-three cents per bushel. That is considerably more than it is worth as fuel."

KILLED IN GUN BATTLE

NO POSSIBILITY OF WAR WITH JAPAN, STATES WRITER

Political Expert Says That England Wants to Hold on to Gain Without Fight

By DR. ARTHUR ROSTHORN
In The Vienna Neue Freie Presse
Dr. Arthur Rosthorn, one of the best-known writers on political subjects in Austria, who is closely following the course of the Washington conference, believes that there is absolutely no chance of war between Japan and America and that there never has been any. He contends that the conference means more to England than any other nation and that England hopes to utilize it to evade a definite decision on the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. The article, which discusses other angles of the international conference, as well, follows:

VIENNA—The Washington conference is for England a way to evade decision on the question of continuing the alliance with Japan without provoking or irritating one side or the other.

England has won in the world war everything that her imperialists hoped to win in their boldest dreams. It is especially to her interest to hold her gains with the smallest possible use of force, especially so in view of her internal difficulties.

The only powers that can dispute England's gains are Japan and America. Thus, from the English viewpoint, the conference in Washington constitutes an effort to maintain at the least possible cost the status quo which is favorable for the British Empire, similarly as the League of Nations created by the peace of Versailles maintains the status quo.

Of the three main powers Japan is decidedly that which has the least interest in a conference for disarmament, or even limitation of armaments.

Unsatisfied Ambitions

Japan is not satisfied as is England; it still has unsatisfied ambitions. Its power is still in the ascendancy, and the status quo is to it only a hindrance. Under the protection of the alliance with England Japan has carried on an exceedingly successful policy of expansion upon the Asiatic continent; she is not willing to stop half-way. Of all the nations she was the last to accept Harding's invitation to the conference, and she did so finally with the reservation that the questions of Far Eastern policy and the problem of the Pacific Ocean, which were to be discussed at the conference, should be determined beforehand. This means, of course, that she wished to bar certain questions from the discussion.

France and Italy will play minor roles at the conference. Especially dependent upon England in their European policy, they will serve to strengthen the English voice.

China will be an object rather than a subject in the conference; however, her representatives will have an opportunity to bring up the unjust treatment of their nation, and they will find some support in America's public opinion.

There is no question that the discussions of the political situation in the Far East and the Pacific problem will constitute the most important part of the conference and that an understanding as to limitation of armaments will be merely an epilogue in the event that an agreement is reached on those other questions.

China Has Markets

In its essentials the conference will be a discussion between Japan and America as to their mutual interests in the Pacific Ocean; in that discussion England will play the role of mediator.

The American press does not grow tired of emphasizing the points of conflict between America and Japan, and of picturing the danger of an armed clash as imminent. I suspect that the press is inspired in this by the same factors—the "100 per cent Americans"—whose patriotism brought them millions in the last war. In reality there are between North America and Japan fewer conflicts of interest than there are between any two states of Europe. Japan will no more go to war on account of the immigration question than the United States will fight for the Island of Yap.

Thus there is only one field in which the contrasts might actually come to a clash and that is the Far East, i. e., China and Siberia. China, as a market for the surplus of industrial products and as an inexhaustible reservoir of raw materials, as well as a market for foreign capital, is of incalculable importance for the future.

America has repeatedly proved a champion of China's integrity and has broken many a diplomatic lance for the "open door," but she has always recoiled when she was confronted with the question of translating words into action.

S. P. SHOWS DECREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—For the first time in many months the monthly report of the Southern Pacific company showed a decrease in net railway operating income in the report made public today. November showed a decrease of $217,196. However, for the eleven months ending with November the net operating income showed an increase of $19,570,273.

ESCAPE WITH DIAMONDS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 24.—Three negroes and one white man entered the office of the Hurst loan company, tied a clerk with ropes and then took $2500 worth of diamonds from a safe. They escaped in an automobile.

DRAW a mental picture, if you please, of the Love, Happiness and Radiant Light of Appreciation that will be reflected from the joyous faces of those who become proud possessors of their own home through the efforts of their Santa Claus this year.

Then place yourself in the proud position of being responsible for the happiness, comfort and protection that ideal homes give, and with these thoughts and the love and appreciation that you hold for your dear ones, resolve this very Christmas to buy or build a Home.

No other efforts are so worth-while—no other accomplishment so forcibly conveys your good intentions, for homes, with their assuredness of protection where family ties are made and kept, where home teachings and environments develop morals, thrift, love, and make for continuous happiness, are worth all the efforts and sacrifice it may be necessary to make in acquiring and paying for them.

Home Ownership reflects the highest moral code of ideals, connotes honesty of purpose, ability and determination to succeed, and fulfills an obligation that marks you a man—a real father.

Homes justly give a feeling of personal pride, demanding respect and consideration to those who call it HOME.

Home—A very little word to represent the fulfillment of most of this world's joys of living, stands for all that is good, true and beautiful—its ownership a privilege—its occupancy a lifelong pleasure, and it is within the reach of all. There is no magical road to success—determination and continuous efforts make homes, and during Christmas time, when sweet memories of the past and deep, sincere hopes and thoughts of the future brighten our lives, is the most opportune time to give home ownership the consideration it deserves, and the best time of the year to make the start.

The supporters of these pages join with us in wishing you an early realization of your fondest dreams, with sincere hope that the coming year will find you and your loved ones housed in a Home of Your Own, enjoying all the happiness, contentment, love and devotion that ideal homes give.

May we repeat again, please—

The Most Appreciated Gift of All—"HOMES"

The following organizations, public-spirited firms and individuals, are interested in helping to make Glendale a city of more beautiful homes and to assist in every possible way in creating homes for those who are desirous of making Glendale their future home, and it is their recommendation that all who can possibly do so, build homes or convert their surplus money into home building channels. That you may take full advantage of the information these pages contain, they have retained the services of competent home designers who will gladly advise with you and give valuable assistance in planning your new home. CAN'T REFORM THEM BY MARRIAGE, SO PRIEST CLAIMS

Denver Pastor Gives Girls
Plenty of Advice Upon
Topic of Matrimony

By RAY HUMPHREYS
Special to The Glendale Evening News.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 24.—If Henry drinks red liquor and the scent stupefies all who chance within ten yards of him—

If John is so awkward that he dances like a hippopotamus and uses words he learned in the army—

If Horace stays out late at nights and thinks that "religion" is the name of a new "moving picture"—

Girls, you don't have to marry 'em.
You don't have to reform 'em—let the police do that. So warns Father William Carroll, C. S. S. R., conducting the young women's retreat at the Saint Francis DeSales Catholic church, Denver.

"Marriage" Is His Topic

Father Carroll, speaking to a churchful of young women of the parish—one of the richest in Denver
—on "Marriage"—took up the question of matrimony without gloves,
fired a few broadsides at divorce,
told parents what was what and distributed a whole eveningful of wise maxims, ancient proverbs and popular sayings anent matrimony, urging,
in the end, that marriage be for love
only—not for shelter, dough or fad.

"Divorce," prefaced Father Carroll, who is an eloquent speaker,
"has become a national menace. It is destroying the very foundation of American life, the American home
and family."

He went on to explain how to avoid divorce.
"Courtship," said the priest, "is nothing of which to be ashamed;
parents should always remember that it is not a sin for grown children to seek a mate for themselves."

Marriage Won't Reform

"Don't marry a man to reform
him," said the cleric, "if you do you'll find you can't. If he won't be a gentleman for you in order to win your love he won't be any more the man after marriage in order to retain your love. If he smokes, chews, swears, drinks—stays out late o'
night—why let the police reform
him. They can do a better job.
They have clubs."

He scored all "reform" marriages
as useless.
"Don't marry for the mere sake of the wedding—or for dough, the vulgar name for money—it will mean
divorce."

A true wife—the kind to marry—
according to the priest's view—is one who knows how to cook and keep house.

"A doll may be beautiful," was the gist of Father Carroll's exclaima-tion on female appearances, "but if she cannot bake a potato indigestion
and divorce may follow."

Cornerstone of Bliss

"Beauty of form and face, of course, is not to be wholly despised,"
added the clergyman by way of consolation to the beauties in the congregation, who were fidgeting a bit.

"Housekeeping, though, is the cornerstone of bliss and the girl who is a good housekeeper makes the best wife. She should have health, too,
and the same likes and dislikes as her husband. She should be of the same religious persuasion—there is grave danger in differences in religion."

"Look before you leap," said Father Carroll, "is a mighty good saying—stop, look and listen."
Father Carroll then characterized the saying that "Two can live as cheaply as one" as being "both true and untrue." He pointed out that real love might make it possible to combined with good management,
which, he showed, was contingent,
after all, on the training and ability of the bride. Romance, he added,
was all right, but was not sufficient to live on.

Airedale Considers Jury Disagreement Means Vindication

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—
consider the disagreement of the jury
a complete vindication," declared Dormie, Ingleside Airedale, in a staccato of words at his home here today. "I doubt if I ever shall be brought to trial again. But if the state so elects I will be ready to defend my life and my reputation before any fair jury."

The jury of nine men and three women who heard the cat-slaughter case against Dormie in Judge Jacks'
court voted seven to five to acquit.
One of the jurors who refused to allow her name to be used today told her reasons for voting for acquittal.
"I was greatly impressed with the plea of Dormie's attorney that Dormie was the victim of an irresistible impulse. I was sorry that more testimony was not introduced to show
the real character of dementia Airedale. Attorney Brennan said it threw Dormie into a frenzy merely to see a cat. The state introduced no experts to controvert this statement and I was forced to vote not guilty. I was impressed also by the failure of state witnesses to identify Dormie in more detail when they chased him with the killing of nine cats."

State attorneys declared that the savage attack made by the defense
on the memory of Sunbeam, Persian angora cat, resulted in the hung jury.
Mrs. Marjorie Ingalls, prosecuting witness and owner of Sunbeam, will urge another trial.

"I cannot understand the jury at
all. The next jury will be more carefully picked if I have anything to do with it," she said.

Christmas Reflections

—In looking backward over the months that have passed since last Christmas, we are reminded of our many happy business relations
with many of our fellow citizens,
and it affords us wonderful pleasure to know that many comfortable Michel planned and built homes are the domiciles of happy families that one year ago could not say on Christmas morning,
"This is our home." In these and other homes in Glendale it is our wish that the true Christmas spirit
may prevail at this happy holiday season.

NIGHT SCHOOL AIDS CONVICT MORALE, STATES WARDEN

Marked Decrease in Number of Commitments to Ward for Breaking Rules

By WILLIAM E. HAYES
Written for International News Service
ATLANTA, Ga.—Education as a potent agency for the uplift of human standards, and the abolition of many minor misdemeanors which eventually may lead to greater transgressions of law is again proven in the administration of J. E. Dyche, warden of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, according to prison officials closely connected with the administration.

Mr. Dyche came to the Federal Prison here last June to take up the executive office, and interesting results may be observed from the installation of a night school in the prison for the benefit of inmates who have been deprived of opportunity for elementary schooling on the outside.

When Mr. Dyche came to the penitentiary here it was a common thing for the isolation ward of the prison to be filled daily because of minor and even serious offenses, prison officials state.

The warden conceived the idea of a night school to give the men advantages which they might have been deprived of in their former life, and two weeks after the night school became effective, prison records show, there was a marked decrease in the number of commitments to the isolation building.

In recent weeks only four at one time are recorded to have been in that portion of the penitentiary, and each of these cases was for trivial offenses. It is said that there are hardly ever more than two at a time in the building since the school was started.

Prison Instructors

The courses taught are rudimentary, and although an effort has been made to secure instructors from outside the prison, so far it has not been possible. Instructors are, therefore, obtained from among the inmates of the institution who are qualified to act.

Henry W. Tomlinson, superintendent of construction at the new Illinois State penitentiary, a recent visitor at the Atlanta prison, expressed amazement when told of the results accomplished by the night school system
both in building morale and lessening violation of prison rules.

"I have been closely connected with prisons of many kinds," he said,
"and it strikes me that the system
Mr. Dyche has sponsored since coming here is one of the most humane efforts I have ever observed toward helping the fellow who is down."

"At the Illinois State penitentiary, at Joliet, we deal, I believe, with the most desperate criminals, and it strikes me that if some such method were inaugurated there, whereby these men could have the advantage of securing good, sound educational knowledge, we would have better prison morale, and there would be less of the frequent uprisings which have manifested themselves in time past."

Visits Hospital Ward

Warden Dyche, differing vastly from the old-school type of prison warden, has made a friend of every convict in his institution. Twice and sometimes three times a week he visits the hospital ward, speaks to each man confined there personally, inquires as to their welfare and is never lacking in words of comfort to those who are afflicted with suffering.

Dyche has made it an iron-clad rule to speak to every prisoner he meets on the grounds or in the cell houses, curtly, but cordially. He never asks even the slightest favor of a prisoner but what he returns a cheery "thank you."

"This policy might not be in accordance with the old conventional-ities of prison management," Mr.
Dyche told the International News Service, "but I find that I am getting results. The records will show that you can do a lot with warm,
human kindness."

Remains of Prehistoric Whale in California

LOS ANGELES—The petrified remains of a whale believed to have lived between 2,000,000 and 3,000,- 000 years ago, have been discovered near the summit of a lofty hill known as San Pedro hill, located near Los Angeles Harbor.

A squad of men, under the direction of L. E. Wyman, zoologist, representing the Museum of History and Arts of this city, is engaged in breaking the petrified bones of the huge mammoth from the solid rock in which it became embedded during ages
after its death.

Nearly fifty feet in length, the remains were found nearly 1200 feet above sea level, and represent the earliest, by many centuries, of any animals whose remains have been found in the United States.

WHAT FRANCE WILL ACCEPT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 24.— France is willing to accept the naval ratio of 1.75 in comparison to the 5-5-3 ratios of America, Great Britain and Japan, only insofar as it relates to capital ships. Where auxiliary craft, such as submarines, cruiz-ers and torpedo boats are concerned, France cannot accept anything like that low a ratio.

This is the gist of Premier Briand's long message to Secretary of State Hughes as revealed when the correspondence between Hughes and Briand was made public by the State Department.

Dry-Lipped Honoluluans Fooled by Headlines

HONOLULU, T. H. — Honoluluans were startled and dry lips were moistened in anticipation when headlines in a local paper announced,
"Hawi Distillery to Produce 600 Gal-

Further reading brought out the disappointing fact that the "pure alas a motor fuel, but not recommended for beverage purposes.

The new distillery is one which has just been installed at Hawi sugar

for the purpose of experimenting with the manufacture of motor fuel

facture. It is one of the few distilleries now in operation under the American flag which has the full approval of dry proponents and the Internal Revenue Office alike.

SPECIAL STUDY IN COLLEGES AID TO U. S. TRADE

Developing Foreign Service Training Is Lauded by Educational Official

WASHINGTON—American prestige in the intense struggle for world trade must be maintained. To this end American colleges and universities are rapidly extending their activities in preparing the youth of the nation to enter the battle fully equipped to maintain this country's position among the foremost powers contending for world trade, according to Dr. Glen Levin Swiggett, widely-known educator and noted authority on foreign service work.

Dr. Swiggett laid great emphasis on the remarkable growth in American colleges and universities in recent years in respect to educational preparation for foreign service, and for commerce in particular.

The development of foreign service training in American educational institutions can largely be attributed to the personal efforts of Dr. Swiggett, as chairman of the committee of fifteen on educational preparation for foreign service.

The committee of fifteen was appointed in 1916 by the commissioner of education of the department of the interior to investigate and report from time to time upon this important type of training, and Dr. Swiggett, for many years a dominating figure in foreign service educational training, was named its chairman.

Realizing the importance of broadening the scope of foreign service education in the colleges and universities of the country, Dr. Swiggett, speaking before general meetings of the National Educational association on several occasions, directly challenged the higher educational institutions "to show whether the nation can prepare for our foreign service, of business and government, of church and society, by building on and through our established educational system."

Challenge Gets Results
The results of this challenge, in the opinion of Dr. Swiggett, followed by the universal scramble for world trade as an inevitable aftermath of the World war, are beginning to manifest themselves.

"It is indeed gratifying," he said, "to note at this time the splendid manner in which this challenge has been met by our colleges and universities, nearly 12 per cent of which have reported courses in foreign service, foreign trade in particular."

According to recent statistics submitted to Dr. Swiggett's committee of fifteen there are now seventy-one American higher educational institutions offering this special training. The ten highest each reported an enrollment of more than one hundred students taking foreign trade, totaling 2255 students. This comprises, Dr. Swiggett pointed out, with extreme satisfaction, about one-fifth of the total number of students enrolled for all courses in collegiate schools of business reporting to the bureau of education only five years ago.

Commenting on the attractiveness of the foreign trade training now being offered by colleges and universities all over the country, Dr. Swiggett said:

Variety in Instruction
"The variety and character of instruction now being offered as preparation for foreign trade in our larger universities reveal at a glance the satisfactory educational response in this field to the demands of business in recent years for a trained and informed personnel in the conduct of our rapidly developing foreign trade."

The many angles of approach to world trade, in the opinion of Dr. Swiggett, require a high level of intelligence, of vision and character, of skill and information, to enable its successful prosecution by an individual, corporation or nation. "In view of which," he added, "one observes with satisfaction the careful and studious preparation now going on in our schools and colleges of young men and young women for some career of usefulness in overseas service, helping to strengthen our international relations and to increase the nation's economic prosperity."

If the present remarkable development in training for foreign service continues, Dr. Swiggett concluded, the young American commercial ambassador, with his traditional and characteristic initiative and virility, will become a dominating factor in deciding the ultimate trend of world trade.

Remains of a sun temple at Adebury, England, are said to be older than Stonehenge itself.

CHRISTMAS SONG

See old Christmas! Here he comes!
Bringing joy to countless homes.
Let him in.
Let your doors unbolted be,— Sure a welcome guest is he,— Ruddy face, and snowy hair,
Joy he brings for all to share,
Kith and kin.

Pile the logs upon the fire,
Till the sparks and flames shoot higher!
Make it glow!
Load the tables with good cheer,
Christmas comes but once a year!
Let the holly-berried red,
Round the festive board be spread,
And mistletoe.

Let the jest and laugh resound,
As the loving cup goes round.
Let us sing!
Never was so great a day,
Then throw grief and care away,
For this message now had birth,
"Peace and good will upon earth."
Let it ring!

Little children clasp your hands;—
Lads and lassies take your stands,
Short and tall;
Hoary men, and women grey,
Let your hearts be young today,
Join in singing on this morn,
When the Son of Man was born,—
Born for all.

Ask the homeless stranger in,
All the world today is kin;
Raise the voice!
Grasp the hand and ope the heart,
Let your joys to all impart,
Happiness to cheer their way,
Christ was born on Christmas day,—
Then rejoice.

NEW AND OLD

When New Year's come it makes us think
Of what is past and gone.
Of happy days we've had with friends,—
Of sad days passed alone.
Of friends we have but lately made,
Of some whose love's grown cold;—
But whilst we welcome new friends,
We dearly love the old.

Fresh faces always have a charm,
When youth an' beauty blend,
And words that spring through hearts
That's warm,
With me find sure a friend.
But Love an' Truth, an' perfect Trust,
More precious are than gold;—
These may exist in new friends,
But we've proven 'em in the old.

Gray hairs above a wrinkled brow,
An' cheeks grown pale an' wan,
Are just as charming to me now
As when friendship's ties began.
Tho' bent the back w' weight o' years,
'At o'er their heads have rolled,
Their kindly smile my bosom cheers,
For friendship's n'er grows old.

And once again, this New Year's day,
To each an' every one,
I wish "God speed you on your way!"
Until Life's goal be won.
May health, an' wealth, an' sweet content,
Be yours, with joys untold,
An' may you find when youth is spent,
True friendships that are old.

THE LAD 'AT LOVES HIS MOTHER

I like to see a lot o' lads
All frolicsome an' free,
An' hear their noisy voices
As they run and shout with glee;
But if there's any son o' lad
I like better than another,
'At makes my heart most truly glad,
It's th' lad 'at loves his mother.

He may be rather dull at school,
Or rather slow at play,
He may be rough an' quarrelsome,—
Mischievous in his way;
He may be always in a scrape,
An' cause no end o' bother,
But there's something good an' honest
In the lad 'at loves his mother.

He may oft do what isn't right,
But conscience will keep prickin';
He dreads far more his mother's grief
Nor what he'd fear a lickin'.
Her troubled face,—her tearful een,—
Her sighs she tries to smother,
Are coals o' fire on the head,
Ov th' lad 'at loves his mother.

When years have passed, an' as a man
He faces toil an' care;
An' where his mother used to sit
Is but an empty chair;—
When by his side sits her he loves
More dear than any other,
He still will cherish, love an' bless
The mem'ry of his mother.

A guardian angel through life's road,
Her spirit still will be,
And in the shadow of her wings
He'll find security.
A better husband he will prove,
A father, or a brother;—
For th' lad 'at makes the noblest man
Is th' lad 'at loves his mother.

WORLD'S GREATEST VOLCANO

The "House of Everlasting Fire" is part of the great volcano Kilauca, on the Hawaiian islands. What Niagaga is among waterfalls Kilauca is among volcanoes. Not so beautiful as Vesuvius or Etna, not so high as some of the lofty flame mountains of South America, Kilauca retains its title by sheer power in which it unr-rivaled. The crater, about four miles square in extent, is an area of bleak desolation, a floor of lava cracked and seamed until it resembles one of the circles of horror in Dante's Inferno.

Most middle-aged Londoners are slightly deaf, due, it is said, to the continuous roar of traffic.

WEDDING SUPERSTITIONS

If she finds a spider on her wedding-dress, or passes a dog or cat on the way to the church, she may face wedded life with a light heart. The first to kneel at the altar, whether bride or bridegroom, will be the first to fall ill, and when leaving the church the bride should be careful to put her right foot foremost and on no account to allow anyone to speak to her husband before herself. To enter the church by one door and leave by another is a certain invitation to misfortune.

Eggs found in the trunk of a large elm while being cut into planks, are estimated to have been lying there about a century.

MINER'S CRADLE

The cradle is a simple appliance for treating "pay dirt," earth and gravel containing gold-dust. It consists essentially of a box, mounted on rockers, and provided with a perforated bottom of sheet iron in which the "pay dirt" is placed. Water is poured on the dirt, and the rocking motion imparted to the cradle causes the finer particles to pass through the perforated bottom onto a canvas screen, and thence to the base of the cradle, where the gold-dust accumulates on transverse bars of wood called "riffles."

More than 1,000,000 patients pass through the New York hospitals every year.

Merry Christmas will be merry indeed for those families who find a shiny new Buick at the doorstep on Christmas morning

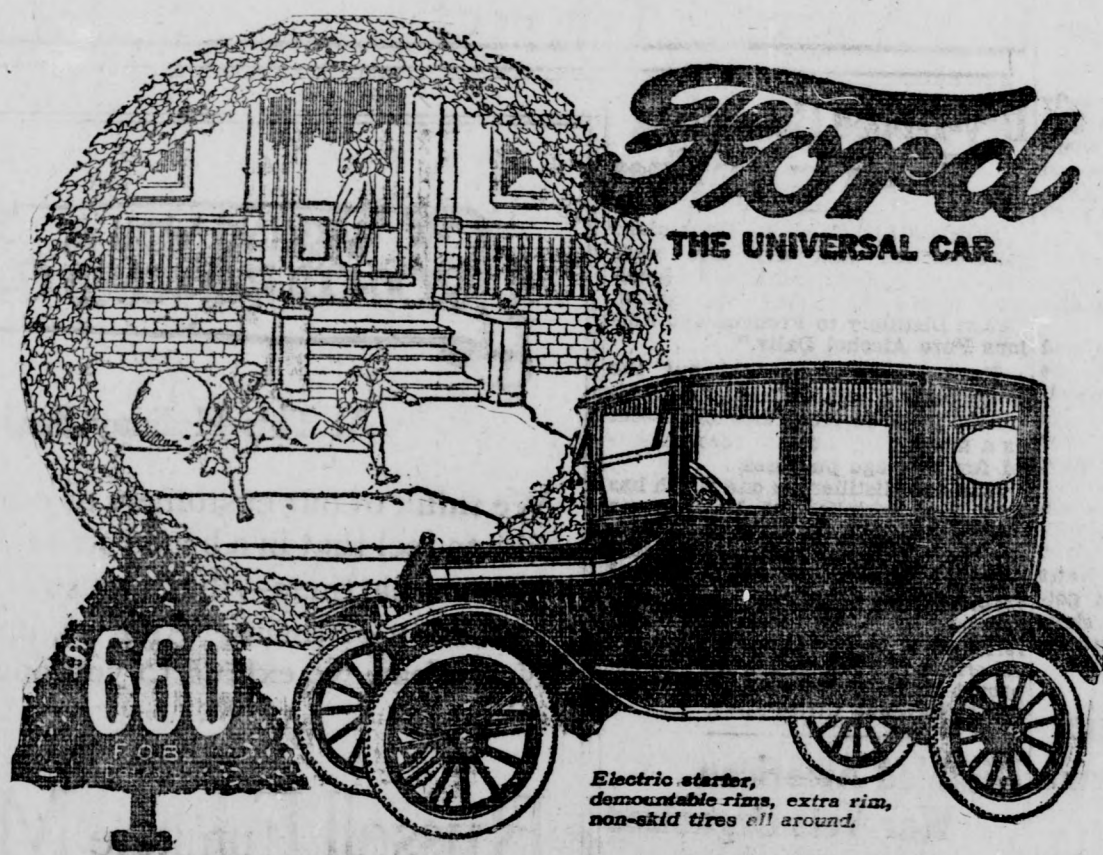

To the family who owns a Buick belongs the satisfaction of knowing that they not only have a car that represents the latest in body lines, and finest in finish, but that mechanically the new Buicks have a number of exclusive patented features that cannot be obtained in any other motor car regardless of price.

The Buick velvet disc clutch, which means ease and safety for the women folks of the family in driving, is a wonderful Christmas present for her.

The famous Valve-in-Head motor with its snap and pep and economy, is an ideal present for him.

Make this the merriest Christmas with a Buick.

STATES HOME LIFE IS REFLECTED IN OFFICE DUTIES

If Married Man or Woman Fails to Do Good Work, Family Troubles Cause

OUT-HAYSING HAYS

SAN FRANCISCO—Here are four guiding axioms of William B. Hamilton, Collector of Customs, in "humanizing" his branch of Government service.

1.—A married man or a married woman must be happy while they are at work or they will not do their work well.

2.—A married man cannot reach full efficiency in his work if he comes to the office after a fight with his wife.

3.—A married woman—a woman being more temperamental than man—isn't any good all day long if she quarreled with her husband at breakfast.

4.—It is not alone a humanitarian duty, it is a service to the Government, if by patching up troubles at home I can make the 400 married folks in the United States Customs Service all happy. They will work more efficiently.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN,

International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO—Postmaster General Will Hays has a rival in his work of "humanizing" a great Governmental department.

And his rival, William B. Hamilton Collector of Customs, a branch of the Treasury Department, goes a step farther than even the intrepid Hays.

It contemplates patching up trouble between hubby and wife.

Here is Collector Hamilton's rule of procedure:

"If a married man or married woman is not doing efficient work, look for trouble at home. Then lend a hand and help patch up the trouble. The result will be an increase of both happiness and efficiency."

Hamilton announced his new rule to the 400 married men and women in the Customs Service following an hour's conference in his private office with a married man of his staff, the man's wife, a doctor and a minister of the gospel.

Couple Leave Smiling

Following the interview the married man went whistling happily back to his work, his wife went smiling home—and Hamilton stated that he believes the United States will profit by what he did.

Accounting for the doctor, Hamilton said he had him on hand to observe pathological symptoms. The minister of the gospel, he invited in as a peacemaker.

Following the new experiment Hamilton refused to make public any names of those present. "It would be cruel," he insisted. "Besides, it would undo all the good I have done," he declared.

But that he has faith in his new theory Hamilton has made clear when he assembled all of his big staff and told them what he intends to do every time he observes a married man or a married woman doing inefficient work. He said:

"You've all got in you to do good work. Your records show that. But you can't do good work if you're 'blue' and if, after discord at home, you come into the office with the idea that the whole world is against you."

Offers to Mediate

"Maybe your differences at home are such as you cannot settle without outside help. If they are, come to me. I will lend you a helping hand. By doing so I will not feel I am interfering with your private affairs—for by helping you I will be helping the Government."

"Uncle Sam will get more results from a happy man than from an unhappy one. A married man cannot reach full efficiency in his work if he comes to the office fresh from a fight with his wife, and a married woman—women being more temperamental than men—isn't any good all day long if she quarreled with her husband at breakfast.

In his address Hamilton paid a glowing tribute to his own wife, to whom, he declared, he owes as much as to himself for what he has accomplished during his many years of happy married life.

BRITISH DOOMED TO DEFEAT IN SHARK FIGHT, BELIEF

Other Nations Are Opposed
to Reduction Submarines; Argument Continues

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 24.—The armament session swung towards the Christmas recess today with the much-feared submarine still the bone of contention among the various delegations.

Having already lost their fight for total abolition of the submarine as a recognized agency of warfare, the British delegates are now expected to turn their efforts towards obtaining a substantial reduction of the submarine allotments in undersea craft proposed by Secretary of State Hughes in his original reduction program.

The British consider 90,000 tons of submarine for themselves and the United States and 54,000 for the Japanese far too high. At least half this figure, or 45,000 tons, with corresponding reductions for Japan, France and Italy, is sufficient, the British experts believe.

Defeat for British

Here again, according to the opinions put forward today in other delegations the British are doomed to defeat. The American experts who framed the limitation program pronounced by Secretary of State Hughes nearly six weeks ago are dead against any reduction from the 90,000 tons proposed, and the nations having smaller tonnage allotments—Japan, France and Italy—are loth to relinquish to any appreciable degree the chief offset to British naval preponderance on the seven seas of the world.

It was generally admitted in authoritative quarters today that some slight concessions may be obtained by Great Britain in the matter of submarine tonnage but they will be of such small dimensions as to leave unaffected the undersea strength of the other powers.

A wide difference of opinion exists today between the British and American experts as to the submarine strength of the five great powers participating in the naval discussion.

American Figures

According to American figures—on which the Hughes program was based—the United States now has 95,000 tons of submarines; Great Britain 82,464; France 92,850; Japan 11,400 and Italy 20,228.

If these figures are correct the United States will have to scrap 5,000 tons to get down to the 90,000 ton figure, while the other nations will have to build slightly to come up to the Hughes program.

The British figures are radically different. They show the United States with 83,500 tons; Great Britain 80,500; Japan 32,200; France 28,300 and Italy 18,200. Under these figures all of the nations would be permitted to build slightly if the Hughes program is adopted.

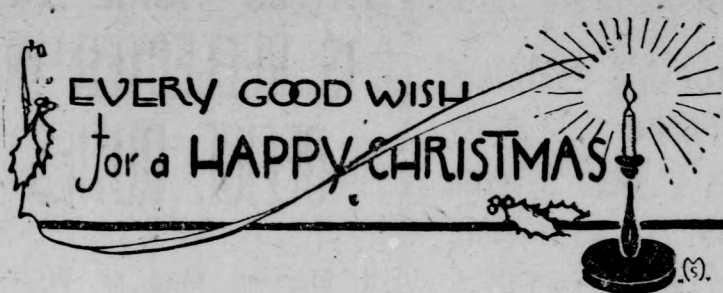

It will be necessary for the British and American experts to get together and reconcile their figures before any final agreement can be reached. They began comparing notes today to find wherein the difference lies.

Await French Program

It was hoped by the conference leaders this morning that when the session is resumed in the Pan-American building this afternoon the French delegates will be prepared to present exact figures of their requirements of submarines, light cruisers and torpedo craft. The presentation of the French program was begun yesterday by M. Sarraut, but had to be halted because of the figures upon which France rests her case had not arrived from Paris.

The question of the Christmas recess also will be decided at the meeting late today. Upon the progress made will depend whether the powers will meet again tomorrow or adjourn over until next Tuesday. There is a general sentiment among some of the foreign delegates to adjourn whether or no, as they want to leave Washington for holiday visits elsewhere.

FEATURE PICTURES WILL BE SHOWN AT T. D. & L.

Manager Ralph Allan Gives Out List of Some Big Attractions Scheduled

Ralph Allan, manager of the T. D. & L. theatre makes the important announcement that his house will show during the holidays and the first two weeks of the New Year the biggest films produced during the passing year by the Paramount and First National. The following attractions, "Don't Tell Everything," "Two Minutes to Go," the big foot-ball picture featuring Charles Ray; Anita Stewart in "Playthings of Destiny," "The Wonderful Thing," with Norma Talmadge; Mack Sennett's triumphant feature, "Molly-O," with Mabel Normand; "Under the Lash," starring Gloria Swanson; "The Little Minister" by Sir J. M. Barrie, in which Betty Compson plays the leading role; and "My Boy" with Jackie Coogan who needs no introduction to Glendale where he spends part of his time.

Special Christmas Program

Mr. Allan is enthusiastic over this opportunity of presenting such pictures to the local public and his pride is only eclipsed by his eagerness to please the many patrons of his theatre, and it is his intention to have the house known for the people's pleasure, amusement, convenience and service.

For Christmas (tomorrow) the attraction will be "Don't Tell Everything." We won't, but there will be special Christmas music including selected Christmas carols by Olsen at the master organ. "Wedding Bells Out of Time" will be the comedy attraction. Kinograms and Burton Holmes' Travelogue complete the film bill.

Holiday Crowds Are Pleased With Vaudeville Bill

Vaudeville at the T. D. & L. theatre this week-end is being received heartily by the holiday crowds, all five acts scoring well. Betty Ross Clarke, the film star, has a delightful personality in her vaudeville vehicle. The Keystone Trio are a scream in their comedy singing number, the real hit of the bill. The feature picture with Ethel Clayton entitled "Wealth" also has power as an attraction.

Tonight's performances will be the last times this varied program will be shown. Tomorrow, "Don't Tell Everything" with Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson and Elliot Dexter will be the feature.

A British inventor has perfected a talking film which photographs action and voice on the same strip. Only one camera with two lenses is required. Perfection of the process to a commercial scale remains to be accomplished.

GEE, KIDS! OLD SANTA HAS LEFT CANDY FOR YOU AT THE T. D. & L.

Old Man Santa Claus has visited the T. D. & L. theatre already, according to Manager Ralph Allan.

And while he cannot be present in person on Christmas Day to greet the kiddies, he left "oodles" of candy with orders that a bag of the sweets should be given every little boy and girl attending the theatre tomorrow.

Of course, it is up to Mr. Allan to carry out Santa's orders.

Vaudeville Offered At Glendale Theatre for Christmas Eve

Five acts of standard vaudeville and a feature film will be the Christmas eve attraction at the Glendale theatre. Of course, everybody will be downtown and plenty of variety is provided for shoppers who drop into the popular playhouse for a few minutes' relaxation.

Today's program is headed by the Oriole Trio who sing popular selections in the most approved manner, or in other words they "put them over" with a bang. The second number of importance will be Dawes & Olga in a contortion novelty. The Norman Duo present a singing oddity that finds favor. Teddy Ladue, the well known comedian and mimic will be welcomed while Kennedy & Grant contribute liberal laughter to the bill.

There is something "homey" about the programs presented at the Glendale theatre and it may be said of all acts coming over the Bert Levey circuit that they are the type which prove popular. William Russell, with beautiful Vola Vale as a feminine foil, will be seen in "Singing River," a story that fits the William Fox star to perfection, as it is a lively tale of the old days when crooks played havoc with those men who were trying to make good honestly. It required brave men to clean up this gang, though it took a long time.

Russell meets a gang of these land and cattle crooks, and he erases a large blot from the landscape—winning the girl who is the heroine of the story.

Business Is Fine,
Says Ed Lawrence,
Speaking of Fords

"Repair business surely has been rushing this week," stated Edward Lawrence, assistant manager of the Ford agency, yesterday afternoon. "I imagine owners want to get their cars fixed for the holidays so they can use them for Christmas trips. Then this rain storm caused a lot of little accidents."

"The mechanics have worked two nights this week. No, not all night. This is a semi-residential district around here and noise is somewhat objectionable. So we never let the boys work in the shop after 10 o'clock."

"Business surely has been good with us the last two weeks. We have been kept pretty busy. Four cars went out yesterday morning."

"Choose a sufficient and varied supply of wholesome food," says an eminent physician, "and you need not bother about the scientific contents of it."

MARY PICKFORD IN LORD FAUNTLEROY, HERE SUNDAY

Famous Story Picturized by Noted Actress Is Feature of Holiday Program

The millions of readers of Frances Hodgson Burnett's world-loved novel, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," will be delighted to know that Mary Pickford in reproducing the story for the screen has preserved all its quaintness and charm, and has been especially faithful to the costumes and manners of the period depicted so vividly by the author.

As a vehicle for the lovely Mary, this story is ideal, running as it does the entire gamut of emotional drama, pathos and riotous comedy. It gives her the greatest opportunity she ever has had for the display of that brilliant genius which has so endeared her to the hearts of Mr. World and his Wife. In this play, opening tomorrow at the Glendale theatre she has a chance to let her public see her as a mature woman and also as a boy of seven. In the world of dramatic art what could be more difficult? Not only in the same play but in the same scenes, will this greatest of all screen artists be seen in these two difficult roles.

Perfect Illusion

Through the medium of double exposure, that most baffling of photographic methods, Miss Pickford is able to appear as two different characters in the same scene, thus producing the most perfect illusion possible.

An appropriate Christmas musical program will be given Sunday and Monday evenings, Paul Carson playing "Oh, Holy Night" by Adam, assisted by James Burroughs, tenor, who created such a favorable impression last Sunday with his solos. Reservations may now be made for any performance. Matinees should be well attended.

Willard Battery Price Schedules Recently Lowered

Few buyers want an article below the price for which a dependable product can be manufactured according to E. W. Cizek of the Auto Electric Company, 300 South Brand boulevard.

"In the present tendency to look for reduced prices, care must be exercised to make sure that former quality has been maintained," says Mr. Cizek. "Such is the case, however, with the Willard battery for which a new price schedule was announced on December 15."

"The Willard battery has always been built to a standard and not to a price. The latest change is due solely to the lower cost of materials. The after-the-war adjustments have reached their lowest stage and prices for Willard batteries in some instances are below the pre-war level."

Stop Signals Are Becoming Popular, States J. M. Butts

The growth in popularity of stop signals has been very remarkable recently, according to J. M. Butts of the Monarch Auto Supply company, 121 South Brand boulevard.

"The stop signals, which we have been handling, have been so superior in workmanship and quality that we have sold them out completely," declared Mr. Butts. "We have some promised and I hope we will be able to deliver them before Christmas."

"Also, we have just received some glass side wings at a very low price of $20 a pair. Heretofore, we had never been able to get any to sell for less than $25. The new ones seem to be a little wider, too, but that doesn't make much difference."

Plenty of Buicks In Southland, So Ray Galvin Finds

"No," remarked Ray Galvin of Tanner & Hall Ltd., 233 South Brand boulevard, "I don't know just how many Buicks there are in Southern California, but there must be a lot of them because there is one automobile to every five persons in Los Angeles. A generation ago there used to be an average of five people to each family. That would have meant that every family had a machine. However, the size of families seems to have been reduced until it is now smaller. The figures seem to show at least every other family owns a car."

Batteries Require Attention, Too, So This Expert Says

"Batteries need attention the same as your tires," remarked A. H. Wishart of the Westinghouse Service Station, 233 South Brand boulevard, yesterday afternoon. "If you don't keep your tires inflated to the proper air pressure, the side walls will break down and ruin them. The same applies to your batteries. If you neglect to have them tested and water put in regularly, you don't know in what condition your batteries are until one of them fails to respond."

S. L. Davis Says New and Improved Essex Will Please

Important improvements have been made under the hood of the new and improved Essex, according to S. L. Davis of the Glendale Hudson Motor company, 230 North Brand boulevard.

"This car has many important features," declared Mr. Davis. "A redesigned intake manifold insures the admission of a much more perfect mixture to the combustion chamber. Together with a changed spark plug arrangement this minimizes carbon deposit. The fouling of spark plugs through poor fuel or mixture is practically impossible. Consequently, mileage is higher."

"Other improvements in design give increased reliability, more flexibility and greater freedom from maintenance care. Simple and inexpensive ways to replace parts as they wear are provided. Therefore the tight, squeak-free and rattless qualities and lively performance of the Essex may be retained throughout the life of the car."

"The body and wheels of the new Essex models are finished in a deep rich shade of blue and all chassis parts are black. A custom built top fitted with gypsy curtains and rear light glass give added appearance."

Good Year Coming, So Lanier Bartlett Sees Among Signs

"I think next year is going to be very good," remarked Lanier Bartlett of Bartlett & French, 201 South Brand boulevard. "I don't see why it shouldn't be with a wet winter ahead. This will be the first we have had for several years. It will make the farmers and all those who have any connection with them very prosperous. A wet winter is bound to stimulate business in a district like this where there are a lot of ranchers."

Jack St. Claire's Moving Days Will End After Holiday

Jack St. Claire, who has been in business at 133 South Brand boulevard for some time, announced yesterday afternoon that he expected to finish moving into the Club Garage, 107 East Colorado avenue, immediately after the Christmas holiday. He will be better prepared then to do automobile repairing of all kinds, especially all forms of ignition work.

H. C. Ferguson Is Well Satisfied With Holiday Business

"I wish to extend a merry Christmas to all our patrons—and also to those who haven't patronized us yet," remarked H. C. Ferguson of the Standard garage, 106 South Kenwood street, yesterday. "Repair business has been very good lately and everybody seems to want to get their car fixed for the holidays. It has been necessary for us to do quite a bit of night work."

'Bob' Ford Is Now With Tanner & Hall In Sales Department

"Bob" Ford, 326 Fairview avenue, has joined the sales force of Tanner & Hall, Ltd., 237 South Brand boulevard. Mr. Ford had a year's experience with the Howard Automobile company, distributors in Los Angeles for the Buick and feels quite familiar with the valve-in-head motor.

Framed as it is within the shadow of protecting hills, which form an ever green natural barrier, it makes, indeed, a most beautiful setting. This Garden of Remembrance offers advantages that are offered in no other Memorial Park in Southern California. In addition to the perpetual care cemetery feature—the benefit of the Mausoleum-Columbarium, Crematory and Receiving Vaults is also given the lot owner—if he wishes to transfer ownership from one to another.

are delighted to be able to enjoy lieving that buying in Glendale was the proper thing, this keen northern

to Comments Made
By Dr. HarrowerEditor The Evening News: My attention having been called to a letter in your issue of the 22d, in-signed Henry R. Harrower, "M. D.", purporting to discuss a high school
site but in reality made the vehicle of a veiled personal attack, permit
a brief reply.Before reading the letter in question my impression always had been that anyone having the intelligence and education that are supposed to go with the title to which that gentleman subscribes, also possessed the manners and refinement, not to speak of good taste and ethical conduct that are supposed to be inseparable from that profession.The matter of my home, as that of Mattison B. Jones or the Masonic Temple whose architecture does not seem to meet the approval of this self-appointed critic, has, I take it,
as little right to be considered in the selection of a high school site as has
that of the home of the good doctor himself, which, if I am correctly informed, is on the very edge of the Luken's site.In this connection, if the doctor will permit it, I would suggest that he take a trip to the south side of the Luken's site and then inform the voters what he finds between Colorado boulevard and that site extending almost the entire length of it. I challenge him to do so and state what it will cost the taxpayers to purchase the row of homes, shacks, chicken yards and oil station that must either be bought at enormous cost or be in the "quadrangle" if the Luken's site is selected.It is quite true that I am in the real estate business, duly licensed,
and with my shingle out, and if the doctor has anything for sale in or near Eagle Rock I will handle it as cheerfully as any other property. I understand also that the doctor is properly licensed in his profession,
but his attitude on this and other matters in this community does not indicate that he sticks strictly to that profession.If he is aggrieved that we have in any measure forestalled him in what my neighbors and I have been enabled to contribute toward a city park, let me hasten to assure the gentleman that the city is still open to receive other and similar "gifts,"
and I have no doubt they will be equally well appreciated.In conclusion let me add: It might relieve the good doctor considerably and clarify the situation for him if he helped himself to one of his boluses before indulging in any future discussion of the school site which I have no doubt the voters will decide without any particular regard as to what either he or I may say.
After the election it may dawn upon him that, after all, the voters were not so eagerly awaiting his pronouncement in the matter.Faithfully yours,
